Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care;
Fit it with clasp and padlock,
Put all your worries there.
Hide therein all your failures,
And each bitter cup you quaff;
Tuck all your heart-aches in it,
Then sit on the lid and laugh.
Tell no-one of its contents,
Never its secrets share;
Drop in your cares and worries,
Keep them for ever there.
Hide them from sight so completely,
The world will never know half;
Fasten the lid down securely,
Then sit on the lid and laugh.
