Travelling husband and wife artists Dennis Harrison and Ann Manly are staying close to home for their latest exhibition.

The couple, who live in Church View, Bampton, where they have a studio, are exhibiting in the village arts centre.

On show are 90 of their most recent watercolours painted on trips to Venice, the Lake District, Yorkshire Dales, Wales and the Cotswolds.

Half the collection features Venice — all painted during a two-week visit in March.

"It was absolutely freezing, we had to wear hand-warmers. But at least there were not too many people around," said Anne.

The exhibition, which is on from October 15 to November 5, also includes sculptures by Lechlade artist Philip Hough.

TRAVELLING husband and wife artists Dennis Harrison and Ann Manly are staying close to home for their last exhibition.

The couple, who live in Church View, Bampton where they have a studio, are exhibiting in the village arts centre.

On show are 90 of their most recent water colours painted on trips to Venice, the Lake District, Yorkshire Dales, Wales and the nearby Cotswolds.

Half the collection features Venice — all painted during a two-week visit in March.

"It was absolutely freezing, we had to wear hand-warmers. But at least there were not two many people around," said Ann.

She and Dennis, who married six years ago, are full-time painters producing most of their work for local galleries.

The exhibition, which is on from Sunday to November 5, also includes sculptures in wood, bronze and stone by Lechlade artist Philip Hough.
